New Projects

Self Regulation in Global Value Chain

The theme of this research project is to study the interrelationship between production and consumption in global regulation of environmental sustainability. The research will study mainly two products, i.e. beef and cotton, both having significant environmental impacts, in three European countries, i.e. Norway, France and UK.

Given the importance of Indian cotton production, CUTS CITEE as a country partner will study the Indian cotton industry, with special reference to environmental sustainability issues. The project is funded by Norwegian Research Council and is being implemented in collaboration with National Institute for Consumer Research (SIFO) and Centre for International Climate and Environmental Research (CICERO), Oslo.

Assessing Consumer Behaviour on Energy Efficient Products in India

In India, attempts to evolve a systematic understanding of consumer behaviour on energy efficient products and their benefits as well as the determination of the level of and secular trends in use of these products have been lacking. There is, thus, an urgent need to gauge consumer behaviour in regard to these products.

CUTS with the support of Shakti Sustainable Energy Foundation (SSEF) would be implementing this project. The objective of the project would be to provide a base for strategy to promote energy conservation in India by correctly characterising the present status of awareness about the need for energy conservation; the use of energy efficient products; and the determinants of such use including barriers to increase usage of such products. The project will:

- generate a comprehensive benchmark, against which future developments in awareness about the need for energy conservation and use of energy efficient products can be evaluated; and
- provide a basis for designing national level future strategies by the relevant departments and ministries of the government of India for enhancing the use of energy efficient products in India.

Reflections from Media

Untapped Promise of G-20

The News, Pakistan, September 19, 2010
By Pradeep S Mehta

World leaders will...to renew their pledge toward attaining the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs). The rationale for the differentiated approach adopted by the MDGs is sound: income poverty is not only highly correlated with the other mentioned forms of deprivation but often the alleviation of the former can only be facilitated on a sustainable basis if there is a concerted and direct attack on the latter.

Tobin Tax: An idea whose time must not pass

Financial Express, Bangladesh, July 25, 2010
By Pradeep S Mehta and Anurag Srivastava

James Tobin's suggestion of 'throwing sands in the wheels of international finance' by taxing currency trading has become a vociferously advocated initiative in the post crisis discourse on reformative regulation. The call is worthy to take a close look, as it emphasises the need for this tax in the context of 'elusive' capital while fiscal deficits are compounding human development deficits.

Leading NGO Suggests Ways to Curb Food Inflation

PTI, July 30, 2010

CUTS has urged Prime Minister Manmohan Singh to create more storage facilities, better governance and tracking the movement of food grains from the farm to the fork to cut down food inflation. In a recent letter to the PM, Pradeep S Mehta, Secretary General, CUTS suggested huge increase in cold storage and warehousing facilities through public-private partnerships or purely private efforts backed by the enhanced ability of farmers to pay for these on the basis of anticipated increase in farm incomes.
